Coleman To Welcome "On To Nelson" Caravan As It Stops Here For An Hour Next Wednesday

Board Of Trade To Provide Light Lunch To The Caravan's Personnel; Several pictures To Be Taken; Pipe Band To Greet Them On Outskirts.

The "On To Nelson Caravan" designed to attract western Canada wide attention to the north linking the four western provinces via a Southern Trans-Canada highway of paved construction and standard width will stop over in Coleman next Wednesday for an hour. It is expected that it will arrive here between 2 and 3 p.m.

It is not definitely known just how many cars will be in the caravan but the Coleman Board of Trade anticipates one hundred or more boosters for the highway will be present. The caravan will start at Brandon, Man. and will gather strength enroute as more and more cars join, thus giving more and more emphasis to attract Ottawa's attention to the importance of such a highway.

It is tentatively planned by the Board of Trade to meet the caravan at the eastern outskirts of town, possibly at the new Municipal hospital, welcoming them to Coleman with the skirl of the bagpipes and a gayly decorated float which will bear the name of the Board of Trade and large welcome banners.

Since they will be here for approximately an hour a buffet lunch will be served, possibly at the sports grounds where an unhampered view of the mag-

Cancer Drive May Reach $1200 This Year

$1165 Cash on Hand With Part of Town Still To Be Heard From; Expected to Exceed Last Year's Figure of $1,100.00

If Coleman does not top all Alberta towns of its size in the recent national Cancer campaign it will definitely be very close to the top. This fact was evident Monday evening when Chairman John McDonald, reporting to Coleman Lions Club which sponsored the local campaign, revealed that he had cash totalling $1,165 in drive to-date and that a part of East Coleman and Blaimore Road had still to be heard from. In addition three canvassers had still retained receipt books in order to collect a few dollars which had been promised.

Last year subscriptions totalled $1,192 and Mr. McDonald stated he was quite confident that $1200 or better would be attained in the present drive.

Officially the drive is closed and he asked that all canvassers complete the drive allotted them and report to either himself or a member of his committee, Fred Guerdar or M. W. Cooke.

Polish Society To Celebrate Anniversary

Thirty Years Ago Since Provincial Charter Granted; Polish Officials To Attend From Provincial Cities.

Coleman branch of the Polish Society of Brotherly Aid is planning on celebrating the thirtieth anniversary of it being granted its provincial charter on Saturday night with a program and dance.

Invitations have been sent to several high provincial Polish officials and they have signified their acceptance. A few local citizens have also received invitations among them being Mayor and Mrs. F. Aboussay. The mayor will extend the congratulations of the Community to the Society.

A well arranged program has been planned and several local artists will be heard in song.

ATTENDED SUPREME COURT HEARINGS

Town secretary Miss Gladys Lees and town solicitor Sam Bannan travelled to Macleod on Monday morning where they presented the town's case against Anthony Lycka to the judge of the Alberta Supreme court. His worship's decision will be handed down shortly.

Constable William Antle was also at the court having to give evidence in a divorce case being heard by the presiding judge.

FOR THE RECORD

Coleman Board of Trade, now three years old, is really proud of its growth and activities in town. Many more activities are planned which, if successful, should greatly benefit the community.

In order that the members might be more enlightened as to the activity of the Board a number of activities will be placed on film. Approximately $76 of film has been authorized to be purchased and such events as the rodeo, the visit of provincial cabinet ministers, etc. will be put on film and kept for the record.

PINCHER AWARDS NEW HOSPITAL CONTRACT

Shogquist Construction is the contractor on the Pincher hospital which is expected to be ready this fall.

Coleman Choral Society To Sponsor Concert

Scheduled for June 10 and 11 in High School Auditorium; Society Has Membership of 50.

Coleman music lovers will be pleased to hear that Coleman Choral Society will present their first concert on the evenings of Thursday and Friday, June 10 and 11.

For this purpose, lacking a community hall, they have been fortunate in securing the use of the High School Auditorium and the Society wish publicly to express their thanks to the school board for granting this privilege, since, had the auditorium not been available, they could not have presented this performance.

The Coleman Choral Society was organized on February 1st this year by a few enthusiasts who felt that there was both the field and the material necessary for such an organization in the town.

The opinion has been amply justified by the attendance, not only at the initial meeting but also at subsequent rehearsals which have been held regularly each Wednesday evening. There are fifty members in the Society, some of whom have had previous experience while others are just breaking into choral work.

An evenly balanced program is being presented and it is hoped that the townspeople will support the effort by their attendance at the performances.

Fifty per cent of the net proceeds has been voted by the Society for a worthy cause, the remainder being required for the purchase of music for future concerts.

Well, I'll say that the plaque which I received from Coleman while overseas.

To the citizens of Coleman therefore I wish to express my sincerest thanks and good wishes.

J. T. Dunbar

Dear Sir:

In today's mail I received the beautiful plaque and wallet presented to ex-service men by Mae Town of Coleman. I am sorry I was not able to attend the celebration that you had for the service personnel. Conditions here at the time prevented me from going to Coleman as much as I would like to have gone. I am certainly delighted to receive these gifts and the plaque will always have a prominent place in my office. It will always remind me not only of this gift but of the many gifts I received from Coleman while overseas.

George Burchell

Dear Sir:

I received the lovely bill fold and plaque and wish to thank Coleman ever so much for their acceptance. I'm sincerely proud of the plaque and just could not resist showing it to my friends here in the regiment. They were in accord with my own opinion and stated it was the nicest presentation that they have seen.

Last Saturday was a big day for the Princess Patricia's. It was "Freezeburg Day" and the day when the Regiment Troops The Colours. Unfortunately it snowed that day so was postponed until Sunday. However, despite the fact the weather hadn't improved any, the Trooping was held and a surprise crowd of over 2,000 people attended and were more than pleased with the colorful ceremony. Our own bugle band was dressed in full dress, scarlet tunic, blue trousers, white spiked helmets and white dress belts. In addition to our own band we also were lucky to get the service of the R.C.H.A. brass band from Camp Shilo. They too were dressed in their own full dress colours of blue and gold. All in all it was a most colorful ceremony and if I can get any large pictures I'll send them down to the Legion.

Well, I'll say that the plaque which I received from Coleman while overseas.

To the citizens of Coleman therefore I wish to express my sincerest thanks and good wishes.

J. T. Dunbar

Dear Sir:

In regards to the gifts which the citizens of Coleman have given to me, I am most grateful you again, and wishing all of you the best of luck.

Mae E. Moores.

CONCRETE WALL COLLAPSED

Some months ago the danger of the concrete wall dividing the DeCocco lot on Second street from collapsing in Nez Perce Creek was discussed at a meeting.

Nothing was done with the result that continued pressure exerted on the wall by earth in the DeCocco lot caused a portion of the wall to collapse and come to rest in the creek bed. A second section appears to be ready to collapse at any moment.

A town work crew threw the broken cement out of the creek.

Only Radio Interference In Town Is That Derived From Home Electrical Appliances State Radio Inspectors

Radio Car Here Last Week And Tests Made Of All Areas Which Had Registered Most Complaints; Outside Aerials And Condensers Recommended.

The Radio Car from Calgary visited town last week on the invitation of the town council and made a thorough test of all areas from which the most complaints had originated.

The car cruised from West Coleman up to the Flats and a number of homes were visited and radios checked for reception. One home checked was that of Mr. Peter Zakko who operates a few electric motors. Two nearby radios were turned on and the motors turned on. The test proved that the motors are not causing interference as no disturbance was recorded on the radios.

While the two inspectors will submit their report to the town council they stated to Town Foreman Joe Malanchuk, Constable Wm. Antle and Mr. A. R. Montabetti that the interference which caused the recent outcry among the townspeople against radio interference came in the main from home electrical appliances.

They advised all householders with electrical appliances to turn them on along with their radio. Should the appliance interfere with reception it most definitely is going to interfere with reception on their neighbors' radios. He stated that all appliances causing interference should be equipped with condensers, costing 95c, $1.60 and $2.10 at any of the electrical stores and this would radically reduce interference.

They also advised radio owners to have good outside aerials. The built-in aerials are less powerful than out-boards and as a result less power is used on the machines which in turn pick up less interference since the power is not turned on full.

Fourth Street Wall Partly Collapses

Time and the weather is exacting a toll from the brick wall which stretches from the east side of the tennis courts to the foot of St. Alban's church.

Last year a portion of the wall collapsed when pressure from the rocks and earth behind it became swollen by rain. Two weeks ago a second portion collapsed. Town workmen will soon be seen rebuilding the damage.

Ernie McFarland To Address Board Of Trade, Friday

Will Speak On the "On To Nelson Caravan."

Coleman Board of Trade will hear Lethbridge Chamber of Commerce president Ernie McFarland speak to its members on the "On To Nelson Caravan," the objective sought by the caravan and the necessity of a standard paved highway through the southern parts of the four western provinces.

Mr. McFarland accepted Board chairman Percy Dickson's invitation on Wednesday morning and it is believed that he will be accompanied by one or two prominent Lethbridge citizens.

Pee Wee Hockey Players Feted At Banquet

Awards Given Star Players; Mayor Aboussay Presided at Function; End Successful Season.

Hockey officially concluded the season 1947-48 on Friday evening when the Pee Wee hockey players were feted at a banquet, heard addresses by prominent citizens and presented with handsome awards. Mayor Frank Aboussay presided.

In addressing his young audience the Mayor stressed the fact that the Pee Wee hockey league was one of the brightest spots in Community activity during the winter months. Only a few public spirited men carried the heavy load in maintaining the league year after year and to them should be given the co-operation of every citizen instead of the criticism which is heard on occasion. He made it clear to them that they, the youth of today, would have the reins of civic and community administration tomorrow and on their shoulders would rest the responsibility of maintaining the progress of the town, both in civic government and in sport.

R. R. Pattinson, sponsor of one Pee Wee team, spoke on behalf of all team sponsors. He told the young players of the necessity of constantly co-operating with their sponsors, their coaches, the ring management and the public generally. It was these various groups which made it possible for them to enjoy organized hockey.

Lions club, league winners, and White Trophy, emblematic of league championship. George Jenkins Jr. team captain, accepted the trophy which was presented by his father.

Young Jenkins was also scoring champion on the season's play. He received a handsome brown leather jacket with a crest on which was sewn his name. The presentation was made by Mr. Spillers.

The Memorial Trophy, a new trophy given by the local branch of the Canadian Legion for the most valuable player to his team, was awarded to Peter Chaluk. In addition to the trophy which he retains for a year Peter was awarded a miniature trophy which will become his own permanent possession. The trophy and the miniature are two exceptionally lovely pieces of art, featuring a hockey player. The presentation was made by Mayor Frank Aboussay on behalf of the Legion.

Two minutes silence was observed in memory of "Our Fallen Heroes".

In an effort to bolster finances the club members had a serious discussion on methods which might be adopted to raise money for community activities. A carnival appeared to have greatest favor and information will be sought respecting plans of other local organizations this summer and fall.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

SALVAGE

—By—
ANNA E. WILSON

PEATTIE picked up the blue slip the cashier slid towards him, his hands, red and swollen with rheumatism, shaking a little. "Too bad," the man's voice was sympathetic, "but the company's retiring you on a pension, Peattie. We have to think of the young men with families, you know." He finished hastily, trying not to look at Peattie's twisted hands. "Mr. Rordian, the president signed it himself and I heard him say to the foreman, 'Don't get many men like Peattie in the fish business these days.'"

Peattie nodded, his salty face as wrinkled as old shoe leather above his worn shirt and sea boots. "Never knew anything but sea and fish, Mannie, but I'm a battered old hulk now and good for nothing but to salvage drift."

Peattie moved away from the window and down towards the wharf. He moved smartly for all that his leg was twisted and lame from the time he went overboard trying to save Natt Orcutt's fishing tackle. He came to the wharf's edge and stood looking out to sea, noticing how the clouds were piling up over against the salt water and how the gulls were screaming and fighting down by the refuse dump at the gutting plant.

Peattie's eyes were as clear and keen as the seagulls' and he clumped down hard on his stubby pipe, as he caught sight of Lonnie swabbing out Natt's fish boat. Couldn't be more than fourteen, Lonnie, but a good lad—not very bright, folks said, but having no parents and living down in the wharf house with Dutch, who was too old and sick to look after him, was enough to make the boy seem dull and slow. Lonnie threw the water, foul with slime and dead fish, into the sea, raising the bucket to show a slim torso, bare to the waist, and clothed below in nothing but a worn pair of the Dutchman's sea trunks.

Lon Souching, a huge hulk of a man, half Irish and half Chinese, said just wiping a knife on his sleeve, and Sil Peters, his arms full of fish nets, spoke through a row of crooked teeth. "Don't seem right to see you loafing, Peattie. Catch a hand." Peattie helped Sil load his fishing tackle and helped himself from Sil's tobacco. "Hear they let you out at the cannery plant, Peattie. Must be we're getting old. Was a time, this fishing tackle was nothing to a man like me and now it's getting to be a right heavy business to anchor it." Sil pushed off, and Peattie, finding nothing on the wharf to interest him, idled with his hands in his pockets, staring at the gulls.

It was no use to go back to his shack. The bunk was neatly made up with a wool blanket well tucked in, sailor fashion. The clock wouldn't mark more than ten and the whole thing was sweet enough to distract him. Sil Peattie stumped down to the Salmon Run and sat down on a hot stone and stared at the salmon.

Salmon were pretty fish, with their silver bellies and shining scales. Game, too. Peattie watched them fighting their way upstream to spawn, noting how the sunlight was caught and tangled in the backs of them.

Peattie tapped his pipe, studying the fish. Wasn't a better fighting fish anywhere than the salmon. Look how they hurled themselves against the fish ladders, the weak ones tumbling back again and again, until, too exhausted to fight the current, they were caught in an eddy and whirled into a stagnant pool. Peattie watched one of them swim round and round, getting slower and slower, until it turned belly upward and drifted into a rim of green scum.

He was like the salmon, Peattie told himself dully. No longer able to make the head waters and shifted into stagnant depths to drift until he turned belly up, no better than a dead fish.

Yes, Peattie thought, the salmon was a pretty fish—when it was young and strong and able; but when it was old and sluggish and its jaws were torn and jagged by hook and tackle, the young weren't long in devouring it. Not that he blamed them, though there were folks aptly called the salmon cannibal fish, but he'd seen many a man go overboard, and fisherfolks did not disdain the fruit of the sea. It was all flesh, wasn't it?

Peattie fell into a mood of depression with the hot sun beating down. Didn't seem right for a man to idle in the middle of the day. Another fish had been forced into the pool and Peattie watched it for a full moment before it gave up the struggle and flopped.

Peattie clamped his teeth on his pipe and a stubborn chin emerged from a week-old whisker. A man wasn't a fish, was he? Why, he wasn't even made like a fish, all in one piece, solid. A fish could get away by propelling itself with its tail while a man had arms and legs, and a head to think with instead of a snout full of bubbles. Peattie took one more look at the salmon and made for the wharf, where he could see that Lonnie was in trouble. The lad was walking about with his bucket and mop, wiping tear streaks into his face with a bony arm.

"Hey, Lonnie!" As Lonnie turned uncertainly towards him, Peattie's shrewd eyes took in the lad's distress. He joked gently.

"What's the matter, Lonnie? Have you lost a tooth, or have you?"

Lonnie cried harder than ever. "It's the Dutchman, Mr. Peattie. They came and took him to the hospital. Doctor says he won't be coming back. Lonnie's eyes showed fear and pain as he saw his makeshift home being wrenched away from him.

"How'd you like to come and live with me, Lonnie, and maybe go to school?"

The boy's tears dried. "You don't mean it, Mr. Peattie. Not for good, for always."

"For good, Lonnie, and look now, you put away that head and mop and wash your face. Tell Mr. Selon at the store to fit some clothes to you."

Peattie swung down from the wharf as the noon whistle blew. Fish and beans. A growing boy'd be needing milk and eggs and fresh vegetables. Peattie bumped into the cannery foreman.

"There's a job as night watchman."

Peattie shook his head. "No, thank you, Mr. Schull." He chuckled. "Come to think of it, I got a job of salvage."

"SOMETHING OF A RARITY"

All the more spectacular when you see them are the six horse teams that work the land in odd places in the prairie provinces these days. While the tractor is fast supplanting the horse for farm work, supply of power implements will not be such this year that the number of horse works will be greatly decreased. But it's a trend that can't be halted, and a few years from now, pictures like the one above will be hard to get.

Celebrate St. Paul's 42nd Anniversary

Rev. D. K. Allan Was Principal Speaker; Anniversary Supper Served Monday Evening.

On Sunday, May 16, St. Paul's United Church celebrated its forty second anniversary. Guest speaker for the occasion was the Rev. D. K. Allan who was a former pastor of this church from 1916 to 1926, now retired and living in Edmonton.

At the morning service a host of old friends, as well as others turned out to welcome Mr. Allan. Special music was rendered by the C.G.I.T. under the leadership of Mrs. F. Smith. In the evening the church was filled to capacity. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Frank Duncanson and Miss Juanita McDonald.

Following the service a social hour was spent in the club room where Mr. Allan renewed old acquaintances and gave an interesting talk on the important events in his life during the past few years. Favorite hymns were enjoyed by all with Mr. Joe Emmerson at the organ. Lunch was served by members of the Woman's Association.

On Monday evening again the members of the congregation and many friends gathered in the club room to partake of a sumptuous dinner by the W. A.

Thus ended a most enjoyable celebration which in every respect, it is believed, was a record. The congregation is very grateful to Rev. D. K. Allan for journeying so far to help make the occasion an ever-remembered one by all.

The members of the W. A. of St. Paul's United church wish to thank each and every one who gave so freely and helped so willingly to make their Anniversary a success.

C. C. F. Talent Show Fairly Well Attended

Two of the four winners of the Community Talent Show, sponsored by the C.C.F., Monday night in the Columbus hall, Blaimore, were from Coleman. An audience of 190 was responsible for the voting.

First prize of $10 went to Frank Muscaro, Blaimore, for his imitation, black face and all, of Al Jolson singing "Mammy." Second prize of $5 went to Ralph Ryzner, of Coleman, for his expressive interpretation on the violin of "Romanza." Third prize of $3 went to Danny Fraser, of Coleman, who sweetly sang, "Wishing." Fourth prize of $2 went to Delores Kubik, of Blaimore, who played on the contrasting tempos and moods of "La Golondrina" and "Tinker Polka."

Ian Arrol, master of ceremonies, gave an illustrated talk on radio broadcasting and Mr. Jack Griffin led the audience in community singing.

While the audience votes were being counted, Mr. John Lloyd, C.C.F. provincial candidate, said a few words about the basic principles of the C.C.F. He said, "The Country owes it to itself and its youth to train the young people to serve in the manner and capacity of which they are most capable. It owes to the adult citizens freedom from want and fear of the future as set forth in the Atlantic Charter and to its honored aged a reward for work well done in the development and maturing of our beloved country."

ALBERTA MUST HAVE MORE

Coal Miners

Alberta's underground coal production dropped 700,000 tons in 1947 compared to 1946. A decline of 18 per cent.

In 1921 Alberta mines employed 10,018 miners while in 1947 Alberta mines employed 8,583. A five-day work week is now in effect thus the latter number could be recognized as only 7,152 men working a six-day week.

The mining industry faces a decreased working staff plus an ever increasing average age among its miners. It is estimated that the majority of the miners are 50 years or more.

The scale in Alberta mines is the highest industrial wage scale in Canada.

Young men must replace the older miners if the coal mining industry is not to falter. A more industrialized Alberta will need greater coal production tonnage.

The situation is serious . . . Will Canadian youth respond or must the mining industry look to other sources?

Help In Case Of Accident

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION: Prone Method.

Some injuries such as electric shock, drowning, gas poisoning, choking interfere with breathing and may cause asphyxiation, unless normal breathing is promptly restored. Artificial respiration should be restored to bring this about, but remember, SEND FOR A DOCTOR IMMEDIATELY.

Lay the patient prone, (face down), the head "downhill", if possible, with one arm extended directly overhead, and the other arm bent at the elbow to form a resting place for the head so that nose and mouth are free for breathing.

Kneel, straddling the patient's thighs, with palms of the hands on the small of the back, and fingers resting on the ribs, the little finger just touching the lowest rib, and the fingers extended straight down.

With arms held straight swing forward slowly bringing the weight of the body gradually upon the patient, so that the shoulder is directly over the heel of the hand at the end of the forward swing. Do not bend elbows. Then immediately swing backward so as to remove the pressure completely. After two seconds, repeat the pressure and release, the complete swing forward and backward to take four or five seconds, or 12 to 15 times a minute. Continue without interruption until the patient breathes naturally.

Patients have been revived after as long as four hours or more by this method. Keep up the artificial respiration and do not allow patient, even if he starts to breathe naturally, to stand or sit up. Keep patient warm and if doctor has not arrived by the time patient has revived, give light stimulants, 1 tea-spoon of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a small glass of water or hot drink of coffee or tea. Watch patient to see that normal breathing continues, and if natural breathing stops, begin artificial respiration again. If necessary, to change operator, the change should be made without losing the rhythm of respiration.

With "Mother Wore Tights", Twentieth Century-Fox's new Technicolor production starring Betty Grable and introducing a sensational new dance personality in Dan Dailey, Hollywood is being forced to re-examine the classification system it has generally used in describing its products. Twentieth Century-Fox is calling this one a story-with-music-and-for very good reasons.

The film, opening Saturday at the Bellevue Theatre, has more story to it than a half-dozen ordinary musicals. The Lamar Trottel script, written from the best-seller, "Mother Wore Tights", by the studio's ace screen writer of "Wilson" and "Captain from Castile," is 134 pages, something of a record for anybody's musical. The story covers a time period ranging from 1900 to 1946.

Canada's National Parks

ONE OF CANADA'S GREATEST ASSETS is the wealth of natural beauty which is to be found in all the provinces. In our many lakes, rivers, forests and mountain ranges there is wealth in the form of natural resources, but they also combine to make Canada one of the most beautiful countries in the world. Visitors from other lands are always impressed with the magnificence of the Rocky Mountains, the extent of the Great Lakes, the splendor of Niagara Falls, and the richness of our farm lands and forests. In many parts of the country the Dominion government has set aside some of the finest scenic areas for national parks. In these areas the natural beauties are being preserved, and good roads and other facilities are provided for tourists, making it possible for many thousands of Canadians, and visitors from other countries to holiday there each year.

Will Improve Western Parks

It has recently been announced that the Dominion government will spend $7,372,000 on national parks in Canada during the fiscal year 1948-49, and of that sum, more than $3,482,000 will be spent on the parks in Western Canada. While much of this money will be used for extensive improvements to the mountain parks at Banff and Jasper, Alberta, considerable sums have been allocated for work on the Prince Albert National Park in Saskatchewan, where $280,300 is to be spent, and on the Riding Mountain National Park in Manitoba where expenditures will amount to $187,500. Improvements are also to be made in other parks in the West including Elk Island Park, the Waterton Lakes National Park, and Glacier Park, in Alberta; and in Yoho, Kootenay and Mount Revelstoke National Parks in British Columbia.

To Encourage Tourist Trade

The improvements to be made in these national parks are a part of the government's plan to encourage American tourists to come to Canada this year and to spend United States dollars in this country. The Canadian Rockies, and beauty spots in the Prairie provinces have for many years attracted people from all parts of the United States and no doubt the information that the national parks in these regions are to be further improved will encourage a great many American tourists to visit them this season. The full potentialities of Canada as a vacation land have not yet been fully developed, but in adding improvements to the many fine national parks, a first step is being taken toward making the most of this very valuable asset.

New Method Of Irrigation To Substitute Ditch Method

REGINA.—A new method of irrigation by "artificial rain" was described by E. L. Gray, superintendent of water development, P.F.R.A., at a meeting of the northern Saskatchewan branch of the Institute of Agriculture in Saskatoon.

This method—a substitute for laborious ditch irrigation—involves use of a system of pumps and light, easily portable, aluminum or magnesium piping capable of throwing water as high as 150 feet and of covering a 30-foot strip each side of the pipe. The method is already being used in the United States, said Mr. Gray.

The system, he said, would utilize any water available from rivers, creeks and dams, dugouts and sloughs.

Cost of the equipment was offset in comparison with the labor costs of irrigation by ditching. A skilled worker at Brooks, Alta., could irrigate five acres a day by ditching. The artificial rain device could, in the hands of an unskilled laborer, cover ten acres a day.

Best protection against disease and pests is a healthy garden, grown from good disease-resistant seed, well cultivated and free from weeds. Bugs harbor among weed growth, waiting until the garden stuff is big enough for a raid. There are bugs that eat holes in the foliage. Poison will get these. There are bugs that suck out the juices and the plant will wither. These must be attacked with spray that will burn. Disease usually hits the plant early and causes withering or rot in blackish spots. Chemicals like sulphur are used in this case. Once the garden is well taken care of, but with things like leaf hoppers and potato bugs which lay eggs, two or three successive treatments to get the young ones will be needed. Most chemicals lose their potency in time so a fresh supply each season is necessary.

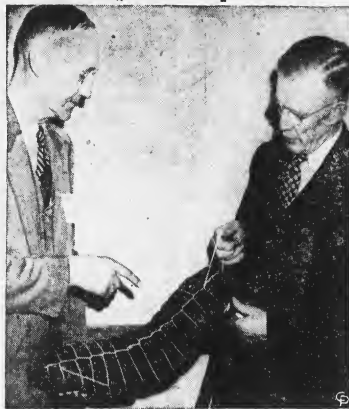

Later care

Once planted and growing, about the only summer care the garden should need will be thinning, weeding and cultivating. If the soil is very dry it is advisable to water. With the latter job one should bear in mind that one good soaking, whether with vegetables, flowers or lawn, is worth a dozen sprinkles. A little chemical fertilizer applied carefully according to directions is also a good thing at this time. It will hurry along growth and with vegetables will increase tenderness. When the hot weather sets in it is as well to cut lawn grass less frequently and not as short. This protects roots from the burning sun.

There is nothing quite like the thrill of being able to boast to a neighbor that your flowers or vegetables are days ahead of his. But there is also much solid satisfaction in having good and beautiful things from the garden long after those next door are done. Perhaps the commonest mistakes of all amateur gardeners are planting too soon and stopping too soon.

With vegetables, especially, most varieties should be sown at least three times, and many things like beets, carrots, beans, green onions, radish, can be planted regularly up to July 1st. This will keep a tasty supply of the freshest vegetables coming along.

Canada's Pickled Horsemeat Rare Delicacy In Europe

Examining the roll of pickled meat here are E. S. Ferguson, Camrose, Alta., and C. Shuriff, Swift Current, Sask., newly appointed directors of the Horse Co-Operative Marketing Association, which has plants in Swift Current and Edmonton.

The object was on display at a recent meeting of the Horse Co-Operative Marketing Association in Swift Current, Sask. It looked for all the world like a bologna used to, before the new look and streamlining caught up with the humble sausage family.

As the long morning session of the annual meeting dragged on, delegates who had breakfasted early began to eye the bologna-like exhibit with a hungry eye. In order to prevent an onslaught with jack knives, the chairman explained that the "thing" simply wasn't edible in its present form.

It was a roll of pickled horsemeat, destined eventually for Belgium or Holland, in which countries it is considered a rare delicacy. Some extra spicing and plenty of cooking would be necessary before it could be eaten, but the chairman assured delegates it was a tasty morsel after it was properly prepared.

The co-op, originally set up to rid the prairies of surplus horses which were being put range grass, and depriving other more profitable types of livestock of a decent living, reported that 115,000 unwanted horses had been camed, pickled and otherwise disposed of.

Plan To Develop Faster Freighters

OTTAWA.—A long-term program for the development of Canada's merchant marine and shipbuilding industry is being launched by the federal government. It was learned. Key features of the plan, expected to be announced officially in the near future, is that the government would grant concessions to encourage shipping companies to get rid of out-of-date vessels and have replacements built in Canadian yards.

Boy Builds $15,000 House For $3,500

VANCOUVER.—Frank Huwyk, high school student, has built a home worth $15,000 at a cost of only $3,500. He started the structure four years ago at the age of 17 and it is now almost finished.

"I never built anything in my life," he said, "but the average kid thinks building a house is a cinch, so I took a crack at it."

The ground floor has an angle living room with a large brick fireplace. The kitchen has plenty of cupboard space. There are two bedrooms on the ground floor. On the second floor Frank has a suite consisting of a large bedroom with a "sitting room" off it.

Making Gains In Leprosy Treatment

TORONTO.—No complete cure is known for leprosy, but modern treatment is making advances against the disease, Sir Walter Kinneir, chairman of the British council, told the Canadian branch of the Mission to Leprosy.

"A lot can be done by separation, and healthy children of leper parents can be saved if they are put into new homes."

Canada Is Third Among World's Seller Of Goods--Fourth In Buying

(By The Canadian Press)

Canada is third among the world's sellers of goods, following the United States and the United Kingdom, and the fourth among the buyers, following those two countries and France.

This compares with her position of fifth among exporters and eighth among importers in 1938.

Figures of this sort are an old story to Canadians—up there near the top for a long time—so old that they may be inclined to forget what they mean.

Some day Canadians have a sense of inferiority, which others deny vigorously, but if they have, it is because they are playing in such a big league. They can't be first in overall figures in competition with the large populations of the United States and the United Kingdom. They can be first per capita in many things, but the very words per capita have a sound of the hazy realms of economics.

However, it isn't hazy economics that some 12,000,000 Canadians are setting up marks undreamed of by any similar number of people. True, in case they should think too much of themselves, they are 12,000,000 people with the good fortune of having a half-continent and its resources at their disposal.

Export Surpluses

Large export surpluses of a growing number of staple commodities—fish, furs, wheat, lumber, newsprint, gold and base metals—have been traded for capital goods necessary to develop the economy.

However: The growth of Canadian exports reflects the development from an economy based largely on wheat to one with a much greater variety and a high degree of industrialization.

In 1913 farm products, fish and furs made up nearly two-thirds of the value of Canada's exports, roughly $280,000,000 of a total of $410,000,000.

By 1947, though this group had increased in value to nearly $1,000,000,000, it constituted only a little over a third of all exports. Wood products and minerals, on the other hand, as a result of the development between two wars, made up almost half of the large 1947 total compared with less than a third of the small figure of 1913.

Manufactured goods also have risen to a position of importance among Canada's exports. In 1947 nearly one-fifth of the total consisted of goods in this group as compared with one-eighth in the inter-war period and only about one-fourteenth in 1913.

STREPTOMYCIN AND TUBERCULOSIS

The use of streptomycin has raised high hopes in the treatment of tuberculosis, the Canadian Medical Association journal comments editorially in a recent issue.

"As in the case with all new remedies, however, time is required for the appraisal of its value," the editorial says, "and there are certain aspects in this case both of the remedy and the disease, which make the appraisal peculiarly difficult."

Referring to a recent survey on the subject by the Council of Pharmacy and Chemistry of the American Medical Association, which was reported in that association's Journal, the Canadian Journal states that the conclusions to be drawn from the work so far are tentative, but allow some definition of the effects of streptomycin.

"It had a favorable effect on most progressive or stationary exudative pulmonary lesions, the effect being most evident in the first 60 to 90 days," the editorial states. "But rarely did it produce a 'cure' and often relapse occurred on withdrawal, some times even whilst treatment was going on."

"The main value of streptomycin in pulmonary tuberculosis appears to be as an adjunct to other measures, especially in certain acute phases in preparing for surgical measures. It should not be used in minimal cases."

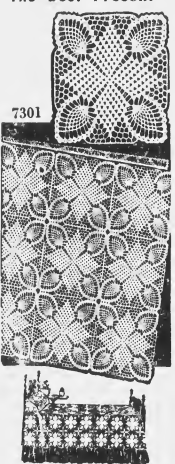

Concerning the value of streptomycin in treatment of the disease in other parts of the body, the Journal says that in tuberculous sinuses "the effects have been strikingly favorable," and that perhaps "the type of disease which responds most satisfactorily is the ulcerative form of tracheobronchial and laryngeal tuberculosis."

Miliary tuberculosis (acute generalized tuberculosis) was said to be amenable to streptomycin treatment and "it is felt that its mortality will be definitely lowered."

"The disadvantages of streptomycin are accentuated in tuberculosis because of the length of the time it has to be used," the Journal editorial comments, adding that there is some toxic reaction.

The Journal says, however, that the whole subject is receiving intensive study and the outlook is very well summed up in the concluding sentence of the Journal of the American Medical Association's report: "The slight and not entirely safe credit provided now by streptomycin to a limited section of the tuberculosis may be replaced by a stronger instrument or a new pair of legs for the entire group."

THE OPTIMIST

No matter how much rain comes down,
Or how the wind may blow.
The robin sings his cheery song,
That all the world may know.
He still remains an optimist.
Despite the state of things:
For he has bucked better winds
Before.
And flown with rain-soaked wings.

At any hour the wind will drop,
And it won't always rain,
And if the worms are hard to pull,
Well, he'll just pull again.
So why not try the robin's plan
And optimistic be?
Have faith, work hard and keep your word.
Then happy you will be.
—T. P. Glave.

Farm Machinery Imported From U.S.

OTTAWA.—There are no prohibitions, controls, taxes or regulations forbidding or limiting the import of either new or used farm machinery from the United States into Canada, officials of the wartime prices and trade board stated. The only way in which such imports might be checked would be by a revision of the Canadian tariff act imposing duties on farms machinery now imported free of customs and excise taxes.

These statements were made with reference to complaints that "free lance" U.S. machinery agents are importing and advertising U.S. made farm machinery at prices high above the Canadian manufacturers' list prices. There never has been a ban on imports of used machinery from the U.S. even during the war.

The outcry has arisen from two sources—Canadian manufacturers and the Canadian revenue department, which sees Canada's precarious supply of U.S. dollars being depleted by purchases of U.S. machinery which duplicates that made in Canada. For the two months of January and February, 1948, nearly $20,000,000 of such U.S. farm machinery was imported against about $13,500,000 in the same period of 1946 and only about $2,000,000 in January and February, 1945.
